

security, $3K for porta johns plus van and a few other things, expenses were around $11 to 12K.

D. John Weide previously provided Les with a report on the status of 2023 show: 56 applications for dealers have been received. Three clubs, 53 vendors, 24 vendors have paid. A total of $6.2K has been collected thus far.

E. Comments suggestions complaints: advertising and Marc Fleischer will return to his role as marketing leader. Some dealer's want name tags for their business at the show.

I. 2022 Symposium

A. Les presents status of the Symposium which is tentatively scheduled for first weekend in April, Saturday the 2nd for presentations. Les has 3 confirmed speakers, need 4 or 5 more speakers. Don Boushelle happily recruited for developing a flyer. The location we are working is the UAAMMNHM, there is room for presentation upstairs and dealers downstairs. Expected numbers between 60 and 100. Equipment logistics are yet to be worked out. We don't want to hold it in the classroom. Attendees supported holding the Symposium at the Museum.

B. Steve Kaminski addresses need to pursue insurance certificates. He will work with Catie.

C. Dawn B and Lavone A. tribute cases will be presented will be on display. Catie notes that the museum is in the midst of development and the space is not finished off. So folks should not come with expectations of visiting and interacting with fully immersive exhibits.

D. Bill Yedowitz made a call for help with labeling and pricing FMF specimens for sales.

Les adjourned the meeting at ~8:08 P.M.
